
MANDATORY HOME INSURANCE

Protect your home against natural disasters

To protect your house, the first step you need to do is to acquire a mandatory home insurance.

What does Home Mandatory insurance cover?

The insurance protects you against earthquakes, floods and landslides.

Depending on the type of the house you want to insure, there are two coverage limits:

- Type A house: construction with reinforced concrete, metal or wood structure or with external walls of stone, burnt brick, wood or any other materials resulting from heat and / or chemical treatment. In this case the insured amount is of EUR 20,000.
- Type B house: exterior wall construction made from unburned brick or any other materials not subjected to heat and/or chemical treatment. In this case, the insured amount is of EUR 10,000.

The validity period of the mandatory insurance policy is of 12 months.
